Hijackers Continue Saga

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A Braniff International jetliner hijacked Friday over Mexico landed here today at heavily guarded Galeao Airport and took off again 13 minutes later for Buenos Aires.

The two hijackers, identified as Robert Lee Jackson, 36, of Tennessee, and Ligia Lucrecia

Sanchez Archila, 23, of Guatemala, were reported to have ordered the blue Boeing 707 to take off when they saw scores of military police standing by.

The hijackers were said to have become angry when they saw a squad of air police and a small truck blocking the taxiway to the civilian side of the sprawling airport, where they wanted to go.

The two, armed with pistols and a suitcase they said contained explosives, first forced the Texas-bound plane to land at Monterrey, Mexico, and then to fly on to Lima, Peru, after collecting $100,000 in ransom for a hostage. They had freed 100 passengers and three stewards.

The four-engine jet touched down at the military side of Galeao Airport at 10:12 a.m. local time.

It taxied toward a military hangar where scores of military police were deployed. Suddenly, it turned around taxied back on to the ramp.

The plane took off at 10:25 a.m., bound for Buenos Aires, said airport officials.

Before the jet touched down, a police officer had said military authorities were not going to let the plane take off again.

What their final destination might be was unclear, but there were indications the pair sought to go to Algeria.

They asked Peruvian authorities for food and pep pills to keep them awake.

The Mexican attorney general's office said the hijackers were Robert Lee Jackson, 36, of Tennessee and Ligia Lucrecia Sanchez Archila, 23, a native of Guatemala who was living in Mexico.

Stewardess Jeanette Crepps, 21, of Oklahoma City, said Jackson first approached her as the Boeing 707 was preparing to land at San Antonio.

She said he stuck a pistol in her ribs, where it remained for about the next hour and a half as the plane turned around and flew to Monterrey.

Miss Crepps said the hijacker pointed to his suitcase and warned: "Don't anybody try to be a hero. If you do this is going to blow us all up." He claimed to have a pint of nitroglycerin in the suitcase.

Jackson told her he was from a small town in Tennessee and had been charged with a crime.

Lively Times Planned For Area Holiday

Fireworks Scheduled All-Round

Weatherman Predicts Ideal Conditions

Numerous fireworks displays will light up southwestern Michigan skies over the weekend as communities conduct wide-ranging Fourth of July celebrations.

Aside from fireworks, there will be other festivities marking Independence Day, ranging from centennial celebrations at Grand Junction to a preview of the Blueberry Festival at South Haven.

According to the weatherman, conditions should be favorable for outdoor relaxing with fair skies and warm temperatures expected at least through the early part of the weekend.

Among the area's festivities: In Benton Harbor-St. Joseph the only large-scale public fireworks show will be held at the Fairplain Plaza on M-139 at dusk this evening. Sponsoring the display will be the Fairplain Plaza Merchants association.

Watervliet will climax three days of celebration at dusk Sunday with what is billed as the biggest fireworks display in southwestern Michigan. The town's annual Fourth of July celebration started Friday.

At Stevensville, the Lakeshore Jaycees will sponsor a fireworks display at 8 p.m. Sunday at Lakeshore high school.

STREET DANCE

The Sister Lakes area Jaycees will sponsor a fireworks display over Round Lake Sunday night. The show will begin around dusk, 10 minutes after the blowing of a fire whistle. A street dance will also be held from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Sister Lakes shopping center with the "Six Feet Under" entertaining.

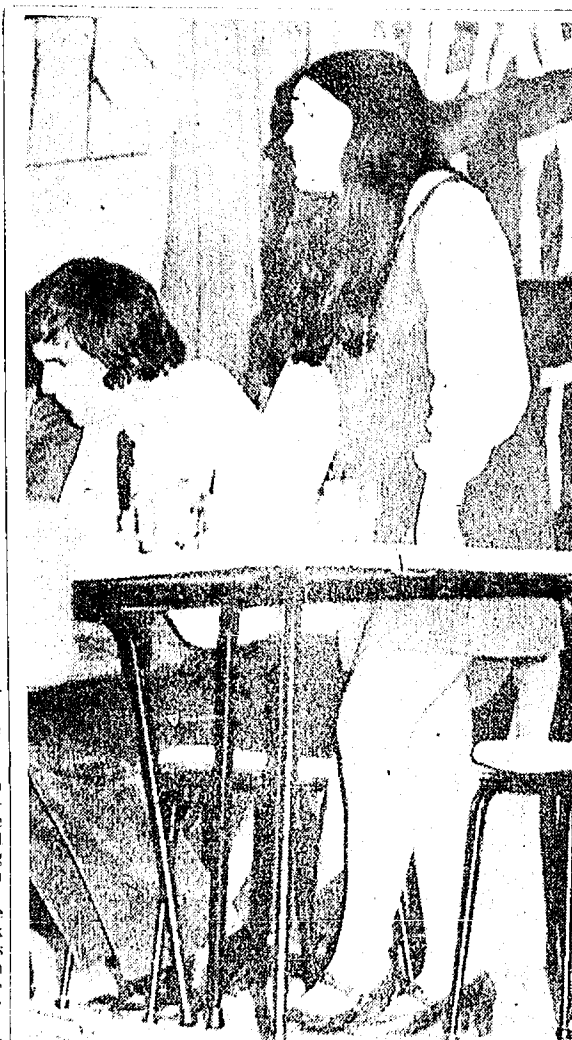

The Lawton Fire department will sponsor a fireworks display at 9 p.m. Sunday night at the Lawton School playground.

In pre-Blueberry Festival celebrations at South Haven, there will be a clothesline art show in Johnston park Sunday from noon to 6 p.m., and an ice cream social from the same hours at the First United Methodist church. Ulster Party Comes To Aid Of Bernadette

LONDON (AP) — The political party that helped elect Bernadette Devlin to the House of Commons rushed to her defense today after the civil rights firebrand from Northern Ireland disclosed she was pregnant.

The Mid-Ulster Independent Socialist Organization, that backed Miss Devlin when she was elected to Parliament in 1969 at the age of 21, said in a statement: "We cannot but admire, as always, Miss Devlin's courage."

The organization invited Miss Devlin to attend a conference Tuesday in Belfast, Northern Ireland's capital, to receive a vote of confidence. The statement was issued in Belfast.

In the 24 hours since Miss Devlin, a Roman Catholic, announced that she expected a baby this fall though unmarried, the critical outcries have been muted.

A spokesman of the Roman Catholic Church headquarters at Westminster Cathedral said: "The Church tries to have as much pastoral love as possible for anyone in this predicament."

The Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of a Protestant faction in Northern Ireland and one of her sternest foes, commented: "All I can say is what the Lord Jesus Christ said, 'He that hath no sin let him cast the first stone.'"

Paisley also sits in the British Parliament.

At Least The Fourth Escaped The Holiday Switcheroo

According to our advertising services, there is not a week in the year which is not dedicated to some purpose or other and this designation mania comes close to capturing each of the 365 days.

More recently the trend has been to shift all of the non-religious holidays with a national ranking to a Monday.

The travel and resort people began working on that gimmick as far back as 1937. A three-day weekend has its obvious business potential.

Congress shied from that blandishment for a long time, remembering what furor FDR raised, when at the behest of the retail community which wanted a longer Christmas shopping season, he backed up Thanksgiving from the fourth to the third Thursday in November.

Thirty years were to pass before this persistence started to bear fruit.

House and Senate hearings opened in 1967 to appoint a Monday as the observance for Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Veterans Day, The Fourth of July and Thanksgiving.

In the following year, the Italian-American community pressured their voices in Congress to put down October 12th as Columbus Day. Many states, including Michigan, observed it as a holiday for some purposes. In our state the banks shut up shop. It was not, though, a nationwide tribute.

As with most ideas first laid on the Congressional table, the holiday switcheroo went through the compromising machine.

Washington's Birthday shifted from February 22d to the third Monday in February. Memorial Day moved from May 30th to the last Monday in May. The Italians received Columbus Day on the second Monday in October. Veterans Day, as a consolidation of Navy Day, Army Day and Armistice Day, took the fourth Monday in October.

Thanksgiving, however, escaped that desecration and independence Day remained unscathed except Congress did tack it to Monday when the Fourth of July falls on a Sunday.

Had the travel lobby bowed up on its homework it is conceivable enough Congressmen would have swallowed the Monday bait. There are many dates on which nearly two centuries ago significant phases of the American Revolution took place. Picking a Monday close to one of them should be no trick whatever. Consider, for instance, the following: On April 18, 1775, the British dispatched a thousand of its garrison troops from Boston to seize an arsenal established at Concord by the rebellious Massachusetts settlers. The detachment also had orders to arrest Samuel Adams and John Hancock. Adams was the spiritual firebrand of the revolutionary movement in the northern colonies, though respectable people of that era regarded him as the hippy of his day. Hancock was the king among colonial merchants smuggling articles of commerce in and out of the colonies, contrary to English excise laws.

William Dawes and Paul Revere rode out the night before to warn of the approaching punitive expedition.

A rebel militia met the British regulars on the Lexington village green and "fired the shot heard round the world."

The troops scattered that opposition and marched on to Concord. There they ran into a murderous enfilade from a stronger militia detachment and were forced into a withering attack all the way back to Boston, losing nearly 30 per cent of their numbers.

The second Continental Congress convened a month later at Philadelphia to constitute itself as the governing body for the 13 colonies.

On June 7, 1776, the Congress adopted this resolution from Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia: "Resolved, That These United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States."

The Congress then requested Thomas Jefferson to draw a position paper.

On July 2, 1776, the Congress voted approval of his Declaration of Independence.

Two days later, Hancock, as President of the Congress, signed the authorized version in the bold stroke and in defiant words which commemorate his full name as the invitation to sign a deal.

On July 8, the Declaration was read aloud to a crowd gathered before Philadelphia's State House.

On July 9, George Washington, commander of the militia holding New York City, read the Declaration to his troops. They responded by pulling down a statue of King George III and melting it into over 42,000 lead bullets.

On August 2, all but a few of the members of Congress had signed another copy of the Declaration. This is the one preserved in the National Archives.

On November 30, 1782, Benjamin Franklin, John Jay and John Adams (Sam's more decorous cousin) signed a preliminary peace with the British emissaries at Paris.

In words prophetic of today's feeling about Viet Nam, Franklin had previously advised Washington that the English were "willing to concede almost anything to get home the 30,000 troops who were doing nothing in America at enormous expense. But there were endless complications and delays."

On December 5, 1782, King George notified Parliament that peace had been proclaimed and added, "I declare them free and independent states."

John Adams felt July 2 should be our country's birth date. He wrote his wife that Congress' vote on Jefferson's document should be observed in two ways:

"It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

"It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parades, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forward forevermore."

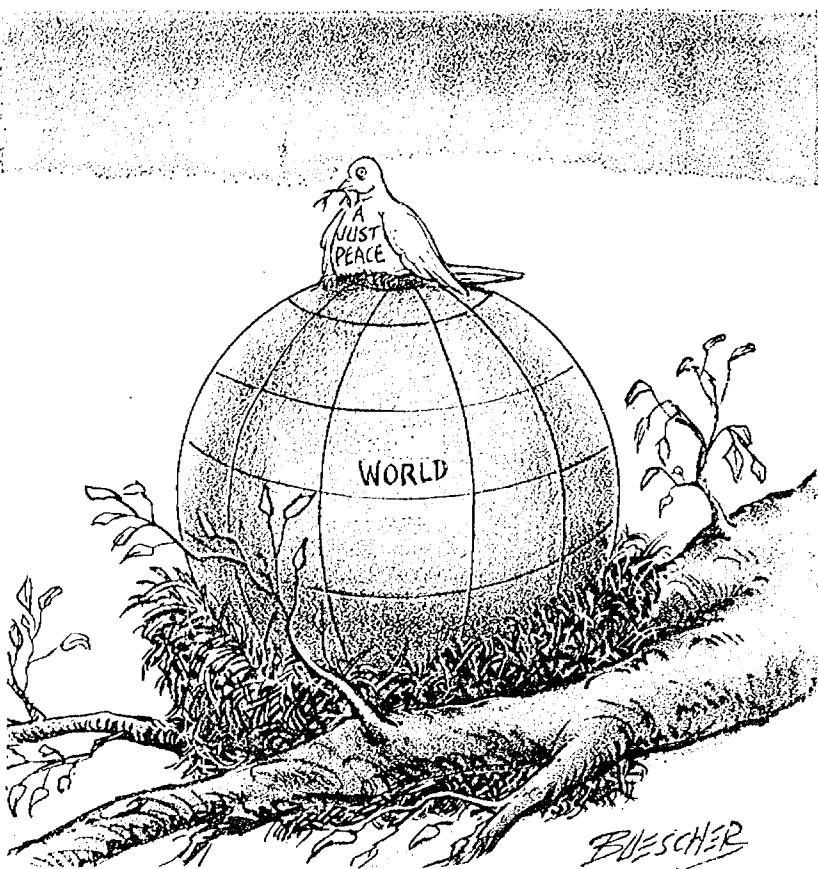

The rebels, however, went with July 4. Hancock's bold gesture as the Declaration's first signer carried an emotional charge higher than a yea and nay vote in an assembly.

We're just as happy the travel lobby apparently did not acquaint itself with how it all began for our country.

In 1929, the Michigan legislature beefed up some older legislation against the fireworkers which John Adams had recommended, so that boyhood celebration of the Fourth has also gone into the history books.

But, if nothing else, Independence Day is still recalled when it should be not when a commercial lobby would like to have it noted.

If the Washington Monument were laid lengthwise on the floor of the grand concourse of Union Station in Washington, D.C., it would lack 205 feet of spanning the great hall, the National Geographic says. The monument is 555 feet tall; the concourse is 760 feet long.

DISAGREES WITH SENATOR ON COYOTE BOUNTY

Senator Zollar's explanation of his reasons for voting to maintain the bounty on coyotes in Michigan is a graphic and tragic example of some lawmakers' total indifference to or ignorance of the basic facts and questions underlying subjects of legislative endeavor, and this is especially true in the area of conservation in this state.

The Senator states: "Hunters normally kill about 3,000 coyotes annually under the bounty system. Coyotes whelp at the rate of 3 to 6 young per year. It's obvious that the coyote population is already being kept down because of the bounty."

This philosophy is the most fallacious concept underlying the bounty approach — the contention that hunters control predators. Professional wildlife managers and researchers contend, and offer statistics compiled from millions spent on bounties throughout the U.S. that bounties do not control predator populations and that predators are not a threat to game populations.

To quote Alfred Etter, a nationally known authority on coyote traits and habits, "By keeping the coyote population harassed and in a constant state of flux, the trapper disrupts the habits of the coyote and makes him in effect into a different animal. This different animal may become a sheep killer, but if he had been left undisturbed in the first place we probably would never have heard from him."

Senator Zollar goes on to say: "Some 11 independent farmers were experiencing losses of livestock as a result of the epidemic of rabies, losses they could not reasonably afford to sustain."

The existing evidence that the coyote is even remotely connected in any way to the incident of rabies in livestock, if, indeed, it can qualify as such, is for the most part pure conjecture. But regardless of that, these "losses" hardly justify bounty legislation when one considers that the total value of substantiated livestock deaths in Michigan attributable to rabies is but a mere fraction of the $70,000 of the taxpayers' money that the Department of Natural Resources must shell out annually for coyote bounties in this state; money that should be spent to protect our wildlife, and not to destroy it.

The Senator states further that he has heard rumors that coyotes kill some deer. Very true, Senator, coyotes kill some deer, just as they have for thousands of years. This is a plan devised in the very beginning by the Celestial Gamekeeper, so that the strong may survive to perpetuate an enduring species; a system of natural checks and balances. A system, incidentally, that over the centuries has proven vastly superior to anything yet devised by man's political processes.

Mr. Jack Olsen, in the March, 1971, issue of Sports Illustrated, gave this prediction of the future of the little wolf:

"Within a few decades the last mountain lion will be gone. Bears and bobcats will probably hold out a little longer because there are many more of them, and the wise and canny coyotes will outlast all the other large predators. But unless there are massive changes, unless the livestock lobbies of the West and the Federal poisoners release their strangleholds and give up their myths and prejudices, the day must come when the last weak and sickened coyote will drag himself to his feet and lift his voice to the skies, and there will be no answer."

"We animals of the earth are a single family, and the death of one only hurries the others toward the final patch of darkness."

DR. COLEMAN

.. And Speaking Of Your Health

Migraine sufferers have cold hands during an attack. This head-and-hands observation was made by Dr. Joseph Sargent during a research project at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas.

It is well known that tension and emotional turbulence also play a role in the cause and the progress of migraine headaches.

Dr. Sargent has been working with a group of patients in an effort to prevent migraine headaches. Dr. Coleman aches or minimize their severity.

The patients are taught how to do hand-warming exercises while hooked up to an electric temperature device. The difference in temperature between the forehead and the fingers are measured. At the same time these patients are taught how to relax and become tranquil.

Apparently, the combination of relaxation and restoring warmth to the hands helps relieve a severe attack of migraine.

Leukemia is certainly one of the ten diseases most wanted for annihilation.

Quietly, but intensively, new drugs are being manufactured, modified and studied in seeking to strike the strongest possible blow against this calamity.

The National Cancer Institute has research projects with universities and hospitals all over the United States. New drugs are being tried and the results carefully evaluated to find the ideal combination.

In a recent series at the New York Memorial Hospital, a new intensive drug therapy for leukemia has been tried which, to date, seems far superior to any previous one.

Croup in children as always struck terror into the hearts of patients. The sight of a child pathetically pulling to get an extra breath of air is as great a source of distress to doctors too.

With the advent of antibiotics and cortisone, the need for doing a tracheotomy (putting a tube in the neck) as a life-saving measure has been markedly reduced.

Now, a new method has been devised which further reduces the need for this operation in acute cases of croup.

At the Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City, children with croup are given a pressure breathing device, a special mask through which they breathe a finely sprayed drug. Breathing becomes easier and many croup children leave the hospital shortly afterwards.

Opening lead—four of hearts. From a rubber bridge game comes this deal where East made a third-hand heart bid and South overcalled with four clubs, which was what he needed for game. West doubled and led a heart.

Declarer put up the ten from dummy and East made a good play when he ducked. Had he covered with the queen, South would have made the contract, for after drawing three rounds of trumps he would have found it easy to trap East's nine of hearts and avoid losing a trick in the suit. All told, he would have lost a club and two diamonds.

But when East ducked the ten South was all washed up. He couldn't continue hearts because he would be subject to repeated heart ruffs, so he did the best he could by playing the A-K-Q and another trump.

West took the jack and shifted to a spade. Declarer rose with the ace and led the eight of hearts, covered by East with the nine. South won the ace but later had to lose a heart and two diamonds, and the outcome was that he went down one.

Oddly enough, South could have made the hand by playing the eight of hearts from dummy at trick one.

Let's assume East covers with the nine. South wins and plays four rounds of trumps. He takes a heart finesse later and breezes home with ten tricks.

If East ducks the eight at trick one, the result is the same. His queen later gets trapped in the same way.

So here again is a case that illustrates the importance of the first play. That's when declarer should do his most serious thinking.

BORN TODAY

Louis XI was five years old when Joan of Arc appeared and he was just six when his father, Charles VII, was crowned at Reims and part of France was in English hands.

He was to become the perfect model for the tyrant-king.

He began his reign with a high-handed treatment of the nobles, even forbidding them to hunt without his permission.

He forced the clergy to pay feudal dues and he conspired against the leading leading families of Italy.

More than any other king of France, Louis XI was a "bourgeois king." The aristocracy of his cities were his allies against the nobles and against the artisan class, whenever they revolted, driven to desperation by the oppressive, royal taxes which furnished Louis XI with the money for his warlike diplomatic maneuvering.

Louis XI ruled like the worst kind of "robber baron" — bribed his competitors and, while draining the land of enormous sums, was pitiless toward those who could not bend to his wishes.

The parliament of Paris was continually in conflict with him. He refused to permit the states-general to meet but once in his reign, in 1468, and even then no talk of grievances was allowed. He told the members of the states-general that he as king could raise his revenue any time he wanted to without having to consult them.

During the last three years of his life, he lived in "great isolation, seeing no one" except such as he commanded. Even so, he made his strong hand felt in France and in Italy to the last.

Others born today include Henry Grattan, John Mason Brown and Oleg Popov.

Born on July 4 were Nathaniel Hawthorne, Stephen Foster, Louis Armstrong, George M. Cohan and President Calvin Coolidge.

YOUR FUTURE

It's Much More Than Just Baby-Sitting

"HICKORY, DICKORY..." Children of migrant farm workers listen and watch as Byron Sittler, student teacher, recites nursery rhyme with help of visual aid. Sittler is working in program at migrant hospitality center near Sodus to gain credit toward a degree at Western Michigan university and teacher certification. His proficiency in Spanish is a help in communication with the children.

Migrant Children Cared For

Even Medical Check-Ups Are Provided

By ORVIN JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Workers at the migrant center on Hartman road near Sodus are in the second year of a program to give migrant children something more than a baby sitting-service.

While at the center, the younger children are being taught to count, to distinguish colors and to get along with each other. Older children visit a nearby fire station and hear from a policeman what a law officer's job is like. The oldest grow their own garden.

PLENTY TO EAT

The children also receive medical and dental care and each day are served two meals and two snacks.

For the second year, Western Michigan university has joined with the Berrien County Council of Churches, which operates the center, to provide the educational day care program for migrant children while their families are working in the fields.

The university has assigned to the center 13 student teachers, who will complete work for certification there in place of the usual time in the classroom. The training, it is felt, exposes the teacher-to-be to work with low-income children as they might find them in an inner-city school.

The university contingent is headed by Mrs. Beverly Kaiser, assisted by Jerome Skarbek. Mrs. Martha Shreve is the supervising teacher.

The Council of Churches supplies the health, nursery and service staff under the direction of Mrs. Jane Hiler. Mrs. Janet Gordon serves as the nurse and Mrs. Earline Roberts, as the head cook.

Almost every day, the center operates at capacity, serving 71 children ranging in age from a few days to six and seven years.

With over 30 adult workers, the student-teacher ratio is evenly low at about 2 to 1. Included among the workers are Billy Dan Smith and Pam Pratt, social workers from the Michigan Department of Social Services, as well as church volunteers.

The day is planned around the picking schedule and begins around 6 a.m., when a bus rented by the church council drops off the first children. By 7:30, the children all have arrived and are ready for breakfast.

The teachers are encouraged to eat with the children so that learning continues throughout the day.

CHILDREN HELP

After breakfast, the children help with the clean up and prepare for their classes. In these classes they study such special units as living things, community helpers and nursery rhymes.

There is a mid-morning snack, a period of group singing and musical games and a hot dinner at noon. After lunch, the children nap on individual cots provided with clean sheets while their teachers plan for the next day's activities. The bus returns the children to the migrant camps.

The migrant hospitality center on Hartman road is now in its 12th year of operation under auspices of the Council of Churches. At its inception it was opposed by many area growers.

At the conclusion of the program last year, a team of officials from the state social services department in Lansing described it as "one of the best in the state," Mrs. Kaiser said. But the real reward—better than any official recognition—is the joy of seeing the effect of the program on the children's development, she said.

HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?: Children six years and older are studying living things. They are raising their own garden behind the migrant center, on Hartman road, having started with seed and plantings they bought. The educational day care program is operated jointly by Western Michigan university and the Berrien County Council of Churches. Pictured with the children is Mrs. Martha Shreve, supervising teacher.

Four Appearances This Weekend For Bandshell In SJ

The St. Joseph municipal band will celebrate Independence day by presenting two days of musical entertainment. Concerts will be held Sunday and Monday, with performances beginning at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. both days.

Band music Sunday will include various marches and be highlighted by the dynamic music of the Finale to Tchaikovsky's 4th Symphony. Guest artists will be "the Claytons," a trio known for its superior roping artistry and use of the lethal Australian whip.

A small group of regular members will perform Monday and form a German Band. Popular German music will be played and audience participation will be encouraged. The program also will include strictly instrumental numbers by the entire band, with selections from The Student Prince, Sweet Charity. Marches will also be highlighted.

There is no charge for admission and dress is casual. Band director John E. N. Howard wishes to invite the public to enjoy part of the weekend at the bandshell on Port street.

Sticker Campaign Neighborhood Club May Put Up Candidate

The West Central Neighborhood Organization, a Benton Harbor block club seeking a stabilized and integrated city, has scheduled its next meeting for Tuesday to discuss plans for supporting a "sticker candidate" for mayor in the August city primary election.

Harold Hansen, president of the block club, said the group's political action committee has a candidate in mind, but he is still considering whether to run.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of Lake Michigan Catholic Middle school, 539 Pearl street.

The block club will also formulate plans for a proposed meeting this month with industrial leaders and welfare representatives to discuss housing and employment problems in the city. The idea for the meetings stems from a previous meeting held last month with the mayor, several city commissioners, and real estate people on panic selling in the city neighborhoods.

VISITS GRANDMOTHER

BUCHANAN—Capt. William O. Keas III, on convalescent leave with injuries suffered in Vietnam, left Thursday to return to Letterman General hospital in San Francisco, Calif. after spending several days with his grandmother, Mrs. Benedict Blotti, 122 South Detroit street.

Regular block club meetings will now be held the first and third Tuesdays of every month at 7:30 p.m., Hansen noted. Members had previously met two Sundays of each month. Plans are also underway to have meetings at other places in the city besides the middle school to "encourage greater block participation within those areas," Hansen said.

Detectives Sift Through 200 Tips In Uland Murder

The investigation into the murder of 20-year-old Janet Lynn Uland of St. Joseph township entered its third week Friday with police checking out nearly 200 tips received, but without an apparent solution in sight.

More than 100 of the tips have been checked out so far, according to Trooper Michael Robinson of the Benton Harbor state police, who is a member of a team of police from six agencies assigned to the case.

"She just had so many friends," noted Robinson, who said the vast number of tips requires time to sift through.

SUSPECTS CLEARED

Robinson said two suspects in the case were cleared after passing lie detector tests. He said most of the tips received appear to be from persons earnestly trying to help.

Miss Uland's body was found Friday, June 1, in a ditch off Thar road on Hagar township. She had been stabbed six times in the chest area and beaten about the head. She was last reported seen with a friend Monday night, June 14. Miss Uland was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Uland, 1759 Trafalgar drive, St. Joseph township.

Trooper Robinson said that so far efforts to locate the murder site are without success. It is believed that she was placed into the ditch after being murdered elsewhere.

State Police Det. Robert Johnston of the Benton Harbor post is coordinating the investigation. Other state police involved are Det. Ronald Beauchamp of the New Buffalo post; and Det. Kenneth Taylor of the Paw Paw post. Joined in the investigation are Det. Lt. Ronald Immoos of the Berrien county sheriff's department; Lt. Jack Drach, Benton township police; Det. Larry Morrow, Benton Harbor; and Det. Lt. William Mihalik, St. Joseph.

Berrien MOD Drive Raises $23,276.17

A total of $23,276.17 was raised in Berrien county's 1971 March of Dimes fund drive, according to Dale Kreitner, treasurer of the local MOD chapter and one of three co-chairmen of the countywide fund drive.

"While this year's figure is below that of 1970, we are not discouraged," Kreitner said. "We have shown a substantial increase every year for the past several years and we are still well ahead of the 1969 figure."

Some $27,000 was collected last year. This year's collection was lower for lack of a traditional Mothers March in Benton Harbor-Benton township, extremely poor weather during the winter campaign, and Benton Harbor school problems that kept MOD volunteers at work on community education problems, Kreitner said.

St. Joseph city's drive, headed by Robert E. McMullen, topped the list of communities with more than $3,144 raised. Benton Harbor area was second, under the leadership of Postmaster George Westfield, at $2,318. Niles continued to show an upward trend as Mrs. Mel Bookout reported a total of more than $2,192.

This year's collections, after an eight per cent reduction for campaign expenses, will be split as follows, according to MOD officials: 25 per cent to the Salk Institute in California for basic research in birth defects, and the balance equally split into Berrien and national March of Dimes shares.

Berrien's share will provide a pair of $500 scholarships to county nursing students for the fourth year in a row plus assistance to county residents suffering from polio and birth defects. The national share goes for national assistance programs and research in birth defects.

Countywide fund drive co-chairmen with Kreitner were Robert Baldwin of Bridgman and Barry Borst of Buchanan. All three are executives of LaSalle Federal Savings and Loan of Buchanan.

MICHAEL H. STONE

Executives Shifted At LMC

The appointment of Michael H. Stone as vice president for instruction at Lake Michigan college and several other shifts in major administrative positions were announced today by LMC President James L. Lehman.

Stone, 31, joined the college two years ago as dean of students and last November was named vice president for student services. The shift to his new position was effective July 1. He succeeds Harry Konechuh who left the institution in April.

Rentzell D. Cleveland, Jr., has been transferred from his post as financial aids and placement officer to acting college registrar for one year. Cleveland will substitute for Registrar Thomas McCourt who is on a one-year sabbatical leave for doctoral study.

Counselor Festus Valentine has been moved into Cleveland's financial aids and placement position for one year. The college's newly-hired co-ach-counselor, Kenneth Maxey, will fill Valentine's place in the counseling section.

In announcing Stone's assignment as vice president for instruction, President Lehman described his work for the college during the past two years as "superlative."

Stone's responsibilities will include working with the faculty on such matters as curriculum, staffing and the development of new instructional techniques as well as other instructional concerns.

He is a native of Kalamazoo and graduate of Albion college. He received a master's degree and a doctor's degree from the University of Michigan.

Date Announced

Blossomtime 'On' For Next Year

Blossomtime, which was first off, then on this year, is "on" for 1972.

Donald Humphrey, president of Blossomtime, Inc., announced that Blossomtime 1972 will be held the week of April 30-May 6.

It was first announced Blossomtime 1971 would fold for lack of support but its boosters breathed new life into the celebration and it was held this past spring. Humphrey said the 1971 celebration was a financial success though a breakdown in income and expenses has not been completed.

Spadework for the 1972 celebration starts next mid-winter.

The area chairmen's dinner and business meeting kicks it off on Jan. 12. The St. Joseph queen's contest is slated for March 10 and the Benton Harbor contest on March 17.

The deadline for all area queen contests is April 3. The Miss Blossomtime pageant will be held April 17.

On April 25, the queens will make the annual trip to visit servicemen at Great Lakes hospital. The annual Blessing of the Blossoms is slated for April 30 and marks the official opening of Blossom Week.

Weesaw Will Buy New Vehicle

NEW TROY — The purchase of a new emergency vehicle was approved Thursday night by the Weesaw township board.

The board voted to purchase the 1971 vehicle from Dennis Distributors of Flint for $11,500. They expect delivery within the next week.

The new unit will replace a 1959 model now in operation. Voters last August approved a one-mill levy for three years to buy a new vehicle and meet other expenses of the township's volunteer fire department.

The board also voted to purchase a two-way radio for the new unit for approximately $750.

In other action, the board accepted a bid of $967 from Carl Williams Roofing company of Berrien Springs to repair the roof of the building which houses the fire department and township hall. Two other bids had been submitted.

Residents from Sawyer road appeared to complain about junk cars and household appliances on the property of Jim Hornbeck. Hornbeck, who had been issued a summons to clean up the property within 30 days, told the board that he would sell the junk within the week.

Reggie Richardson, fire chief, was given permission to have tanker truck number two repaired at Gersonde's in Benton Harbor.

COLOMA

Water-Sewer Price Cut Explained

COLOMA — City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Johnson said today that a summer reduction in water-sewer billings for city customers affects a quarterly billing, not a monthly charge as reported by this newspaper in an article published Tuesday.

Mrs. Johnson said the 50 per cent reduction involves the sewage charge because it is based on the amount of water sent into the sewer system by an individual customer. The amount is based on the amount of water registered through the customer's water meter.

According to Mrs. Johnson the customer, however, would not pay less than the $5 minimum quarterly charge for each service. The summer quarter covers July, August and September.

State Schedules 93 Billboards For Ax

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The Michigan Highway Department has announced plans to cut down 93 illegal billboards lining Interstate highways in the Lower Peninsula.

The department said it will be "the broadest attack yet taken by the state against illegal billboards."

Previously, more than 60 such signs have been taken down.

"The legal action by the department still was running behind the work of so-called 'billboard bandits,' who have been sawing down signs on their own."

The department estimated more than 200 signs have been cut down illegally, mostly by youths striking at night.

Highway Department Director Henrik Stasch said all signs to be removed have been put up since 1970.

Owners of the signs will be given 30 days to take them down. Those not removed will be cut down by the department and owners will be billed for the expense.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said present legislation enabling sign removal is ineffective and urged passage of a law to bring Michigan in line with federal regulations governing such illegal billboards.

Join with the governor, environmental groups and thousands of citizens in this state in urging the legislature to resist pressures they face from special interest groups and pass effective legislation," he said.

The Highway Department said 48 of the signs to be removed are along Interstate 69 Freeway, 42 in Branch County and six in Calhoun County.

The next largest group of signs will be cut down along Interstate 75 Freeway, nine in Crawford County, eight in Cheboygan County, six in Bay County, two in Saginaw County and one in Ogemaw County.

Small clusters of signs also will be taken down along highways in Kent, Ionia, Clinton, Eaton, Ingham, Livingston, Berrien, Van Buren and Oakland counties.

Man, 68, Accused Of Assault

Benton Harbor police said Lee Bell, 68, was arrested about 11 p.m. Friday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon after another man was reported injured at Bell's home, 304 Paw Paw avenue.

Injured by apparent stab wounds about the left chest area, shoulder and the side of his face was Robert Washington, 28, of 400 Park street, Benton Harbor. Washington was released after treatment at Mercy hospital.

Detectives said the incident occurred during a quarrel at a party, according to witnesses. The weapon used has not been determined. Bell also received a laceration about the eye, and was lodged in the county jail after treatment.

Benton Harbor police Friday night arrested two youths, one of them a minor, and recovered two stereo tape players, believed stolen from autos. The arrests were made about 10:30 p.m., after a resident, parked in a lot off 200 Territorial road saw an empty auto entered and then noted the license plate number of another car as it left the lot.

Booked on charges of larceny from an auto were Earl Satterfield, 18, of 341 Margaret, Benton township, and a 15-year-old Benton Harbor boy. Satterfield also was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Police said one of the stereo players recovered is believed to belong to Mrs. Linda Ritter, Box 122 Sister Lakes, whose auto was in the lot. The owner of the second has not been determined. The players were found in an alley off the 600 block of Madison, where the two youths were arrested.

Benton Harbor police late Friday morning investigated the theft of $313 in bills and change from the Esquire bar, 190 Territorial. Bar owner Howard Laetz, told officers he put a bag with the money in a cabinet and made several trips back and forth to his auto outside before discovering that the bag was missing.

Thomas R. Fette Friday morning told Berrien county sheriff's men that his 1970 Volkswagen was stolen overnight Thursday while parked near his home, 774 Golf road, Benton township. Fette, an attorney whose office is in St. Joseph, told officers that the yellow auto contained a briefcase, book of statutes and transcript of a trial.

Robert P. Dapkus told deputies Friday that someone, apparently using a boat, has stolen a two-horsepower motor and centrifugal pump, valued at a total of $175, from his yard at 3048 St. Joseph River drive, Sodus township. Officers reported that there were no vehicle tracks visible and the pump and motor were near the St. Joseph river bank.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

'Cats And Dogs' Owner Should Upgrade 'Pets'

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. A few months ago I bought about $1,000 worth of two Canadian oil stocks — 100 shares of one at 4 3/4 and 50 of another at $9. Now they are losing ground. Should I hold on? I am interested in stocks selling around $10 and am prepared to invest about $500 a month. Please send me a list of growth stocks and a list of speculative issues.

A. I'm using your letter as the perfect example of the question I am NOT equipped to handle.

All I can find about these stocks is that you are down about 20 per cent on your investment. One of the stocks, the "higher-priced one," has had a record of earning a few pennies a share for as far back as I looked. The recent earnings record of the other hovered between a profit of a few cents a share and a similar small deficit. Latest reports of both show declines.

I haven't the slightest idea of how they will do in the year or years ahead and certainly won't guess.

What does intrigue me is that a man who can put $500 a month into stocks should write that he is interested in stocks selling at $10 (or less, I assume.) Why? An investment of $500 a month is sufficient to build a tidy portfolio in even the highest quality blue chip growth stocks. What, then, are you doing fooling around with stocks which for years have slogged along in the "cats and dogs" class?

Your envelope is bringing you a list of quality growth stocks. And they already include all the speculation I care to consider.

SCOTCH EXPERTS

MORE ON SCOTCH WHISKY: Frequent queries about the advisability of investing in Scotch whisky in bond (about which I know next to nothing) has prompted me to turn to experts for their advice on the matter. I have in the past quoted one leading professional in the field who warned the risks involved. I've since gone further — to the Scotch Whisky Association itself at Edinburgh, Scotland, — and can offer this reply from one of its officials:

"I note that you have seen a number of advertisements which 'tend to offer guaranteed profits of 15 and 20 per cent annually.' I think it is nonsense to say that there are guaranteed profits for any industry and this is certainly so for the Scotch Whisky industry. In fact, during the years 1965 and 1966 the industry suffered from overproduction and prices, particularly of grain whisky, fell. Furthermore, many members of the public are offered and purchase these Scotch whisky fillings at a price in excess of the market price. Therefore the making of a profit is even more difficult. I enclose a copy of the form letter which, on the advice of our attorney in Washington, D.C. is sent to all members of the public seeking advice on investment in Scotch whisky."

The form letter response from the secretary of the association to such queries says: "I am sorry if I appear to be unhelpful, but I think that as Secretary, I should not answer questions or give my advice to persons outside the industry as to the wisdom or otherwise of investing in Scotch Whisky. In my personal capacity, however, I would stress the obvious, namely, that it is extremely hazardous to invest in any commodity when one has no knowledge of the marketing conditions relating to that commodity."

Having presented this warning from "headquarters," it would be presumptuous of me to say more.

Bendix Earnings Take 3rd Quarter Jump Over 1970

Bendix Corporation is enjoying improved earnings during the current year, according to reports from company officials at the firm's headquarters in Southfield, Mich.

Bendix' hydraulics division is located in Lincoln township on Lakeshore drive south of St. Joseph.

The huge manufacturing firm will report earnings of 62 or 63 cents a share for the third quarter ended June 30, up from a restated 47 cents a share before, Chairman A. P. Fontaine told a business news service, Dow-Jones.

Fontaine also predicted earnings for the year ending Sept. 30 would be up about 25 per cent over the restated $1.95 a share earned by the firm in a depressed year last year. He said he expects 1971 sales to be about $1.65 billion, down slightly from a restated 1970 level of $1.68 billion.

The 25 per cent increase in full year earnings predicted by Fontaine is generally in line with recent analysts' predictions of about $2.50 a share. Fontaine hinted it was possible the earnings improvement could be slightly better than 25 per cent and said the analysts have been "doing well" in assessing the situation of the Southfield aviation, electronics, automotive and forest-products firm.

Fontaine characterized the expected improvement as "a pretty good performance," considering the fact that "the economy in general is far from improving as fast as had been thought."

Fontaine said Bendix hopes fiscal 1972 will see a return to earnings equal to or better than the record $2.33 a share posted in fiscal 1969 before consolidation of foreign subsidiaries results.

He said Bendix's recently announced joint venture with KMS Industries Inc. to develop a feasible device for controlling the power of atomic fusion was a "gamble" that could become "a big bonanza" if it succeeded. And he said two other large firms were expected to join with Bendix and KMS in the venture during the next few months.

Fontaine said fiscal 1971 will show continued improvement in Bendix's efforts to reduce tax expenditures in relation to commercial sales. Non-governmental business in the year ending Sept. 30, he said, will account for about 73 per cent of sales, up from 63 per cent in 1970. He said the company hopes to increase commercial business to 78 per cent to 80 per cent.

Capital spending for 1971 will be about $43 million, up from about $10 million in 1970. For 1972, Fontaine said, he expects Bendix capital spending to return to the $50 million level it attained in 1969.

Fontaine stressed that much of Bendix's recovery this year could be traced to stringent cost controls applied in its sagging aerospace and electronics business, which he said would be about 15 per cent to 20 per cent more profitable this year than in fiscal 1970.

He said losses on the canceled SST program were minimal and he is confident a dispute over the cost of the F-14 fighter plane in which Bendix has a major stake would merely delay and not cancel the plane's final production. What ever the fate of the space program, he said, Bendix expects to maintain its proportion of NASA's business.

Bendix has "major growth plans" in the forest products area, Fontaine said. He said the acquisition of American Forest Products Corp. was only the first step in a "ambitious plan" to build forest products business.

He said Bendix was considering further acquisitions in the field and is deciding which aspect of the forest products business it will concentrate on.

Land development construction and paper packaging were among the aspects being considered, he said. He predicted that in five to ten years forest products might account for about the same percentage of Bendix's Corp. sales as automotive product.

How a minus
On your paycheck can be a plus in your future.

Sound confusing? It isn't, really. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck. That's the "minus."

That amount will then be invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. That's where the "plus" comes in. Because you're automatically saving for your future, with one of the safest investments there are: U.S. Savings Bonds.

And, by deducting a little at a time from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch financially. Before you know it, you'll have quite a tidy sum tucked away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/4% when held to maturity.
